

Stephen . . . and the Apostles

WEEKLY BIBLE STUDY

6th in an eight-week series

July 30, 2017

©2017 Scott L. Engle

Acts 6:1–15 (CEB)

About that time, while the number of disciples continued to increase, a complaint arose. Greek-speaking disciples accused the Aramaic-speaking disciples because their widows were being overlooked in the daily food service. <sup>2</sup>The Twelve called a meeting of all the disciples and said, “It isn’t right for us to set aside proclamation of God’s word in order to serve tables. <sup>3</sup>Brothers and sisters, carefully choose seven well-respected men from among you. They must be well-respected and endowed by the Spirit with exceptional wisdom. We will put them in charge of this concern. <sup>4</sup>As for us, we will devote ourselves to prayer and the service of proclaiming the word.” <sup>5</sup>This proposal pleased the entire community. They selected Stephen, a man endowed by the Holy Spirit with exceptional faith, Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolaus from Antioch, a convert to Judaism. <sup>6</sup>The community presented these seven to the apostles, who prayed and laid their hands on them. <sup>7</sup>God’s word continued to grow. The number of disciples in Jerusalem increased significantly. Even a large group of priests embraced the faith.

<sup>8</sup>Stephen, who stood out among the believers for the way God’s grace was at work in his life and for his exceptional endowment with divine power, was doing great wonders and signs among the people. <sup>9</sup>Opposition arose from some who belonged to the so-called Synagogue of Former Slaves. Members from Cyrene, Alexandria, Cilicia, and Asia entered into debate with Stephen. <sup>10</sup>However, they couldn’t resist the wisdom the Spirit gave him as he spoke. <sup>11</sup>Then they secretly enticed some people to claim, “We heard him insult Moses and God.” <sup>12</sup>They stirred up the people, the elders, and the legal experts. They caught Stephen, dragged him away, and brought him before the Jerusalem Council. <sup>13</sup>Before the council, they presented false witnesses who testified, “This man never stops speaking against this holy place and the Law. <sup>14</sup>In fact, we heard him say that this man Jesus of Nazareth will destroy this place and alter the customary practices Moses gave us.” <sup>15</sup>Everyone seated in the council stared at Stephen, and they saw that his face was radiant, just like an angel’s.

Acts 7:51–8:1a (CEB)

<sup>51</sup>“You stubborn people! In your thoughts and hearing, you are like those who have had no part in God’s covenant! You continuously set yourself against the Holy Spirit, just like your ancestors did. <sup>52</sup>Was there a single prophet your ancestors didn’t harass? They even killed those who predicted the coming of the righteous one, and you’ve betrayed and murdered him! <sup>53</sup>You received the Law given by angels, but you haven’t kept it.”

<sup>54</sup>Once the council members heard these words, they were enraged and began to grind their teeth at Stephen. <sup>55</sup>But Stephen, enabled by the Holy Spirit, stared into heaven and saw God’s majesty and Jesus standing at God’s right side. <sup>56</sup>He exclaimed, “Look! I can see heaven on display and the Human One standing at God’s right side!” <sup>57</sup>At this, they shrieked and covered their ears. Together, they charged at him, <sup>58</sup>threw him out of the city, and began to stone him. The witnesses placed their coats in the care of a young man named Saul. <sup>59</sup>As they battered him with stones, Stephen prayed, “Lord Jesus, accept my life!” <sup>60</sup>Falling to his knees, he shouted, “Lord, don’t hold this sin against them!” Then he died.

<sup>1</sup>Saul was in full agreement with Stephen’s murder.

When our faith is tested, how do we respond? With boldness and love?

Imagine someone seeing something of Jesus in you, perhaps even a lot of “something.” Luke takes great pains to help us grasp that Stephen gets into trouble precisely because he is so much like Jesus in his ministry, his “exceptional endowment with divine power” and “doing great wonders and signs” (6:8). And Stephen would be like Jesus in his death, ever faithful and obedient.

The community grows

The early chapters of Acts focus on life in the emerging community of Jesus-believers in Jerusalem in the months and years after the Holy Spirit arrived during the festival of Pentecost after Jesus' resurrection. The community grows and thrives as the city hears the Good News and sees stark evidence of God's creative power among them. But, not too surprisingly, problems begin to emerge.

That says nothing about their faith, only that they still had to deal with their own sinful hearts. For example, in Acts 5 a man and his wife lie to the apostles . . . to God! . . . falsely claiming that they had turned over all the proceeds from a property sale. They hadn't and when confronted with their lies, they both drop dead.

Now, a more significant problem has emerged that threatens the community's unity, which is comprised of both Greek-speaking disciples (referred to as the "Hellenists" in most translations) and Aramaic-speaking disciples (the "Hebrews"). In other words, there were disciples even then who were originally from elsewhere in the Roman Empire. As we all know, desiring unity and living unity are not the same. The Greek-speaking widows believe that their needs are not being met for the sake of the Aramaic-speaking widows. The nature of the problem is well laid-out by N.T. Wright:

The problem came to a head over the treatment of widows. This shows that already in the early church the question of 'living as a single family' had clear negative as well as positive implications: normally, widows would be taken care of among their own blood-relations, but those family ties appear to have been cut when people joined the new movement. As in some parts of the world to this day, baptism meant saying goodbye to an existing family as well as being welcomed into a new one. And the new one therefore had to take on the obligations of the old. . . .

Whatever we think about that, the distinction in verse 1 between 'Hellenists' and 'Hebrews' is probably one of those things with a variety of elements mixed together. Nobody had planned for a complex and intricate welfare system. It had been invented on the hoof, when there were other things (such as persecution by the authorities) to think about. It would be surprising if such a system could proceed without difficulties. And in a complex society such as that in Jerusalem, which was both a deeply traditional culture, very conscious of its historic and religious significance, and a cosmopolitan mixture of Jews from all over the world, it is not surprising that people would be eyeing one another to see if this or that group appeared to be taking advantage.<sup>1</sup>

With the food distribution system having broken down, the apostles realize that they are going to need some reorganization of structure and duties. Who will do what and how will the needs of all be effectively and justly met? So the apostles call a meeting of all the believers in Jerusalem. They outline the problem and ask the community to select seven men, to whom the apostles would delegate the food distribution (diakonein) and assuredly other responsibilities. The community would select the seven, but the apostles set forth two criteria. They must be well-respected and it must be clear to all that the men have been endowed by the Holy Spirit with exceptional wisdom.

Seven men were chosen; their names are listed in 6:5 above. In front of the community, the apostles pray over the seven and lay their hands on them, which denoted a sharing of the apostles' authoritative power. The apostles were ensuring that as they delegated responsibility, they also gave these men authority. The apostles would continue to serve but would now focus on prayer and the proclamation of the Gospel.

A target

Stephen is listed first among and his gifts are noted. Surely that is no accident. It becomes clear that there is, indeed, something special about Stephen. Enough so that opposition to him rose and, soon, made him a target of the Jewish leadership and the crowds. Eventually, Stephen is hauled before the Jewish Council where he is confronted by false testimony. There's a remarkable moment in 6:15: as Stephen is lied about, his face is radiant, "just like an angel's."

---

<sup>1</sup> Wright, T. (2008). Acts for Everyone, Part 1: Chapters 1-12 (p. 98). London: Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

When Stephen speaks in his own defense against the accusations of blasphemy, he delivers a blistering indictment not only of the Jewish leadership but of his fellow Jews in general. Stephen takes the council through the long sad story of the Jews and their unwillingness to see God's work among them. If you ever want a quick run through of the Old Testament story just turn to Acts 7. It is certainly one of the most important speeches in Acts. Robert Wall helps us to look a bit deeper into Stephen's speech.

Speeches in Acts typically respond to a theological mistake. Stephen's is no exception: The question, "Are these things so?" is asked by a hostile court in consideration of "false" testimony (see above). On the face of it, however, Stephen's speech is hardly an apologia in either form or motive; nowhere does he directly respond to the charges brought against him. Nor is his speech kerygmatic,<sup>2</sup> since nowhere does he draw together biblical passages in support of the church's proclamation that the risen Jesus is God's promised Messiah. Rather, he tells a story of unrepentant Israel. Johnson reminds us that similar prophetic recitals of Israel's history were commonplace within biblical and contemporary Jewish literature. The manner of the storyteller's retelling of that sacred history—what is included or omitted and in what sequence—presents a particular line of vision into Israel's faith and destiny. Apart from its brevity, the principal literary convention that distinguishes this historiography from secular counterparts (e.g., Herodotus, Thucydides, Josephus) is its biblical diction and citation: Stephen's speech is midrashic—that is, he retells Israel's history by recalling a selection of biblical stories that carry his theological freight—a prophet's exposure of Israel's need for repentance and restoration. He only indirectly responds to the charges leveled against him as an element of this theological perspective, and the central themes of his speech are those of a pious Jew who would never blaspheme God or Moses (see 6:11).<sup>3</sup>

Needless to say, the speech does not go over well. Stephen's fellow Jews become enraged and haul him outside to be stoned to death. Wall again:

"While they were stoning him, Stephen prayed" (7:59 NIV). The manner of Stephen's death is exemplary of his costly obedience. His inspired vision of the exalted Lord, glossed by his faithful confession and earnest prayers at the very moment of his martyrdom, expresses a genuine piety. Yet the most compelling evidence of the depth of Stephen's spiritual life is the content of his prayers. Similar to Jesus' dying words, Stephen prays for the forgiveness of his enemies at the very moment of their apparent triumph over him and his witness. He does not ridicule his executioners, nor does he express regret for his untimely death. He prays for their salvation: It is what and for whom he prays, and not that he prays, that gives his death its most profound meaning.<sup>4</sup>

This series is titled, Supporting Actors. It is easy to see that Stephen was supporting the apostles, taking on the work of caring for the poor. But Stephen was also supporting the work of Christ, boldly proclaiming Israel's dire need for salvation and witnessing, even in death, to Christ's love.

---

<sup>2</sup> "Kerygmatic" is from the Greek word, kerygma, meaning "preaching" and refers to proclaiming a message. In the New Testament, this kerygma is the Good News about Jesus.

<sup>3</sup> Wall, R. W. (1994–2004). The Acts of the Apostles. In L. E. Keck (Ed.), New Interpreter's Bible (Vol. 10, p. 124). Nashville: Abingdon Press.

<sup>4</sup> Ibid.

Questions for Discussion and Reflection

We live in a very achievement-oriented community and many of us come from professions filled with hierarchies of power and knowledge. In the church, there are no hierarchies of service – one way of serving the church is not spiritually superior to another. As Paul says, “Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit; and there are varieties of services, but the same Lord; and there are activities, but it is the same God who activates all of them in everyone” (1Cor 12:4-6). Do you find this hard to really accept? Is our seeming need for hierarchy a barrier to service? Or is it a lack of confidence? Or a lack of training? How do we overcome this?

Daily Bible Readings

This week: The story of Stephen . . . and the apostles

Monday, Acts 1 & 2 Jesus returns to the Father and the Holy Spirit arrives.

Tuesday, Acts 3 The apostles begin to enact the arrival of God’s kingdom by healing.

Wednesday, Acts 4 Peter and John are questioned by the Jewish authorities; the community shares and prays.

Thursday, Acts 5 Anania and Sapphira lie to God; the council actively harasses the apostles.

Friday, Acts 6 The apostles delegate their work.

Saturday, Acts 7 Stephen offers his own indictment.

Scott Engle’s Bible Classes

Monday Evening Class

We are studying the book of Exodus.

Meets from 7:00 to 8:15 in Piro Hall

This class will not meet July 31, August 7, and August 14

Tuesday Lunchtime Class

We are studying Paul’s letter to the Colossians.

Meets from 11:45 to 1:00 in Piro Hall

This class will not meet August 1 and August 8

About the weekday classes:

Join us whenever you can. Each week’s lesson stands on its own. This is very “drop-in.” Bring something to eat if you like. Bring a study Bible.

On occasion Scott must cancel class, so if you are coming for the first time, you can check www.scottengle.org to make sure the class is meeting.

Scott’s 10:50 Sunday Class in Festival Hall

This is a large, lecture-oriented class open to all ages.

Coming in October 2018: A cruise to Israel with Scott & Patti

For more information go to www.scottengle.org