Released from the Darkness

WEEKLY BIBLE STUDY

3rd in a five-part series

January 24, 2016 ©2016 Scott L. Engle

Luke 8:26-39 (CEB)

<sup>26</sup> Jesus and his disciples sailed to the Gerasenes' land, which is across the lake from Galilee. <sup>27</sup> As soon as Jesus got out of the boat, a certain man met him. The man was from the city and was possessed by demons. For a long time, he had lived among the tombs, naked and homeless. <sup>28</sup> When he saw Jesus, he shrieked and fell down before him. Then he shouted, "What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, don't torture me!" <sup>29</sup> He said this because Jesus had already commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. Many times it had taken possession of him, so he would be bound with leg irons and chains and placed under guard. But he would break his restraints, and the demon would force him into the wilderness.

30 Jesus asked him, "What is your name?"

"Legion," he replied, because many demons had entered him. <sup>31</sup> They pleaded with him not to order them to go back into the abyss. <sup>32</sup> A large herd of pigs was feeding on the hillside. The demons begged Jesus to let them go into the pigs. Jesus gave them permission, <sup>33</sup> and the demons left the man and entered the pigs. The herd rushed down the cliff into the lake and drowned.

<sup>34</sup> When those who tended the pigs saw what happened, they ran away and told the story in the city and in the countryside. <sup>35</sup> People came to see what had happened. They came to Jesus and found the man from whom the demons had gone. He was sitting at Jesus' feet, fully dressed and completely sane. They were filled with awe. <sup>36</sup> Those people who had actually seen what had happened told them how the demon-possessed man had been delivered. <sup>37</sup> Then everyone gathered from the region of the Gerasenes asked Jesus to leave their area because they were overcome with fear. So he got into the boat and returned across the lake. <sup>38</sup> The man from whom the demons had gone begged to come along with Jesus as one of his disciples. Jesus sent him away, saying, <sup>39</sup> "Return home and tell the story of what God has done for you." So he went throughout the city proclaiming what Jesus had done for him.

The need of some people for rescue can be hard to see. They seem whole and healthy. But there are many, such as the Gentile man we meet today, whose need for salvation is evident to all. This man is in desperate trouble.

My wife, Patti, can't really watch horror movies anymore. Certainly, never in the dark. They are just too much. Too much terror, too much fright. Our story today is a horror story. It is the tale of a man trapped in a harrowing, nearly inhuman existence. It is clear that he is desperately in need of rescue.

The setting of the story says much:

- Jesus travels to the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. It is an area populated by Gentiles, not Jews. In Jesus' day, Jews didn't mix easily with Gentiles, most even refusing to eat with them.
- Pigs figure in the story. These animals would have set any Jew's hair on end, making it that much clearer that Jesus had crossed over to the "other side."
   You can learn more about the place of pigs in the Bible in the page 4 textbox.
- There is a graveyard of sorts, an area where tombs are found among the caves. Jews would be ritually unclean if they even touched a dead body. If the first two items hadn't put off any self-respecting Jew listening to this story, this last item would have driven them over the edge.
- Then there is the demon. . . . enough said.

• Finally, we have the pointed reference to Rome, the oppressor of the Jews. The demons refer to themselves as "Legion," the largest standing unit in the Roman army, consisting of nearly 6,000 fighting men.

The whole story screams Unclean, Gentile, Other, Horror, Darkness, Ungodly . . . and then we come to the mad man himself. He lives among the tombs in the caves. He has so lost himself that he cannot be restrained anymore. Even chains can't hold him. Day and night he roams the hills, screaming and shrieking, hurting himself and threatening all. <sup>1</sup>

Surely this is a man who is beyond hope, living every day in misery and isolation. What hope could anyone offer him? What promises of help could possibly be kept?

Gentiles

(from The Dictionary of Biblical Imagery)

"Gentiles" is the general English rendering of the Hebrew terms  $g\hat{o}y\hat{n}m$  and 'ammîm and the Greek term  $ethn\bar{e}$  when these terms are interpreted to refer to non-Israelites or non-Jews.

This is the most basic social, ethnic distinction that can be made -"not us" (like the Japanese term for foreigners, gai jin). In Pauline letters the word akrobystia, "foreskins" or "uncircumcision," is used to describe the Gentiles (Rom 2:26–27; 3:30; Gal 2:7; Eph 2:11; Col 3:11; cf. Acts 11:3). This term was created by the Jews in contrast to peritomē, "circumcision." In the OT circumcision was the covenant sign for the people of God (Gen 17:11). As such, circumcision symbolized consecration to God (cf. Gen 17:1), and it naturally became a mark of Israel's distinctiveness. On the contrary, uncircumcision represented the Gentiles, those outside the covenant with God. Because the Gentiles were not dedicated and sanctified to God (Ezek 23:30), uncircumcision became a symbol for stubbornness and unbelief (Lev 26:41; Deut 10:16; 30:6; Jer 6:10; 9:25ff). The Gentiles as uncircumcision were indeed the people of rebellion and disobedience, and they were thus viewed with contempt (Judg 14:3; 15:18; 1 Sam 14:6; 17:26, 36; 2 Sam 1:20; 1 Chron 10:4). In Christ, however, there is no distinction between circumcision and uncircumcision (1 Cor 7:19, Gal 5:6; 6:15; Col 3:11).

... While there are "righteous Gentiles" who, though they do not have the law, paradoxically show by their actions that it is written on their hearts (Rom 2:14), the term Gentile would remind a Jew of his greatest enemies. The "table of nations" in Genesis 10 provides a "map" of the Gentile world-an introduction to the antagonists in this story. . . . Furthermore, the Gentile rulers are characterized as "lording it over them" (Mt 20:25; Mk 10:42; Lk 22:25); Jesus is "handed over" to the Gentiles and they do their awful work on him (Mt 20:19; Mk 10:33; Lk 18:32; Acts 4:27); Jerusalem will be "trampled" by the Gentiles until the "times of the Gentiles is fulfilled" (Lk 21:24). Paul can tick off the situation for Gentiles: "Separate from Christ, excluded from citizenship in Israel and foreigners to the covenants of the promise, without hope and without God in the world . . . far away" (Eph 2:12–13 NIV), their thinking is futile (Eph 4:17). Gentiles (and governors and kings) are the focus of the disciples' (or a select person's, Acts 9:15) "witness," and they cannot be expected to receive it gladly (Mt 10:18). In fact, Gentile hostility is aligned with Israel's hostility toward Jesus.

Yet a dramatic reversal of fortune enters as the gospel is spread throughout the world, and now in Christ God is even the God of the Gentiles (Rom 3:29), whom he calls "my people" (Rom 9:24–25). The former black sheep of the human family are now the envy of Israel, the chosen son (Rom 11:11). Gentiles have become obedient servants (Rom 15:18) and share in the Jews' spiritual blessings (Rom 15:27). The Gentiles now join the congregation of praise as full members of the chorus (Rom 15:9–11), full citizens and members of God's household. As aliens from the "commonwealth of Israel," "strangers to the covenants of promise" and those who were "far off," they have now been made participants-even building stones-in a new temple of God (Eph 2:11–22 RSV). In Acts we find that God has poured out his favor and Spirit "even upon the Gentiles" (Acts 10:45; 11:1, 18), a gift which many of them receive gladly (Acts 13:48), though the precise terms of their inclusion in the people of God is a matter of dispute (Acts 15:5–20).

&lt;sup>1</sup> Mark's gospel gives us some more details about the man (5:1-20).

When the madman sees Jesus he runs directly to him, falling on his knees and shouting, "What do you want with me?" It seems clear that the man is not speaking for himself; rather, it is the demon possessing the man who addresses Jesus. "What do you want with me," the demon shrieks.

As with the man in the Capernaum synagogue (4:31-36), Jesus orders the demon to go, to leave this man. But Jesus also asks the demon his name. The reply is "Legion," which is probably a pointed reference to Rome. The demon then begs Jesus not to send them away . . . so, in a moment of profound irony, Jesus allows the demon to go to a nearby herd of pigs. When the pigs find themselves in the demonic embrace, they run headlong into the Sea of Galilee, all 2,000 of them according to Mark. Imagine how this story would have been received by Luke's Jewish readers – demons and pigs all going to the watery depths! Many would have said they deserved each other.

And the man... is he truly healed? Can it be true? After so long in misery and pain and loneliness? Yes, it is true and when the residents of the area come, they can see it for themselves. The man is just sitting there, dressed, and in his right mind. And as the people hear the story, they grow fearful. Who has the power to accomplish such things? Who can drive out demons? Who can order them into animals that then fling themselves off a cliff? How could this be true?

Sadly, their response to the loss of their pigs (a lot of wealth!) and to what they can't understand is all too typical – they ask Jesus to leave their region, to go home and take all these strange doings with him. In his commentary on Mark's telling of the story (5:1-20), Lamar Williamson writes:

... The crowd's desire to be rid of Jesus, their discomfort in his presence, demonstrates that they, too, are in fact demon-possessed, subjected to a power or powers hostile to the Kingdom of God.

Was it really the loss of the pigs that prompted this reaction? The point is not made explicitly in the text, and to limit the interpretation to a condemnation of greed narrows the focus of the text. Yet the text does allow this interpretation; its persistence in our time reflects the fact that our love of material possessions is one of the demons that plague us.

The connection between verses 17 and 18a is significant in this regard. When the crowd begged Jesus to depart, he got into the boat to leave. For all his power, Jesus does not force himself on those who fear the cost of his healing more than they love the cure ... or the healer.<sup>2</sup>

As Jesus prepares to leave, the man asks if he can go with him. What sort of future was there for him in the area he had terrorized as a madman? Would he not always be ridiculed and even feared?

But Jesus asks the healed man to stay, to go home and tell people how much the Lord had done for him, how the Lord had mercy on him.

And the man did as Jesus told him, going into the city (Luke) and throughout the Decapolis (Mark), proclaiming the Good News. The Decapolis was an area largely on the eastern side of the Jordan River, comprised of cities very Greek in politics, religion, and culture. In other words, Jesus sent the man to proclaim the news about Jesus to the Gentiles. Thus, in a way, this man, whose name has been lost to us, was the first apostle to the Gentiles. God's promise that the entire world would be blessed through the family of Abraham was being kept in and through Jesus.

&lt;sup>2</sup> Williamson, L. (1983). Mark. Interpretation, a Bible Commentary for Teaching and Preaching (106). Atlanta, GA: J. Knox Press.

The Bible and Pigs

(from The Dictionary of Biblical Imagery)

The law of Moses considers pigs "unclean" and not to be eaten by the people of Israel (Lev 11:7; Deut 14:8). While this puts them in a category containing many other creatures, in practice they were a prominent member of this category, since in many other parts of the ancient world pigs were kept as domestic animals and valued as food. Thus eating pork is instanced as a key example of unclean, pagan practice in Isaiah 65:4 and 66:17, which attack Israelites who participate in pagan cults. Especially in view of Isaiah 66:3, which refers to the offering of pigs' blood in sacrifice, it is likely that in these verses the eating of pork pertains to a sacrificial rite, even though the eating of pork offered in sacrifice was not common in ancient Near Eastern religion. For a biblical writer, of course, the association of pigs with holiness, which these apostate Israelites claim to gain from their pagan rites (Is 65:5; 66:17), is heavily ironic.

In the later biblical period, Jewish abstention from pork was a notable distinctive that marked them out from Gentiles. In the persecution under Antiochus Epiphanes, which aimed to eradicate the distinctives of Jewish religion, loyal Jews treated abstention from pork as a test of their loyalty to God's law. The Maccabean martyrs died for refusing to compromise on this point (2 Macc 6:18–20; 7:1). Part of Antiochus's desecration of the temple consisted of offering pigs in sacrifice (1 Macc 1:47), since pigs, as unclean, were not among the animals used for sacrifice according to the law of Moses.

Although the classification of pigs as "unclean" is a technical one that does not refer to their physical dirtiness, in the ancient world pigs were generally considered dirty animals. They were often allowed to roam loose and scavenge in the streets, as dogs did. This increased the symbolic association of uncleanness with pigs in the Jewish mind, and in a later period both pigs and dogs became derogatory terms for Gentiles. An obvious association of pigs with Gentiles appears in the NT, where when pigs appear as domestic animals it is a clear indication that the story has entered Gentile territory, as in the cases of Jesus' encounter with the demoniac Legion (Mk 5:11–14) and the prodigal son's degradation to swineherd (Lk 15:15–16). . . .

The association of pigs with dogs occurs both in Matthew 7:6 and in 2 Peter 2:22. . . . . Some interpreters have seen here a prohibition on preaching the gospel to Gentiles (symbolized as dogs and swine; cf. Mt 10:5), but it seems more likely that simply unreceptive hearers are in view, people who treat what is supremely valuable (like pearls) as worthless and contemptible. Such people need not be Gentiles, but the saying may compare them with typical Gentiles, regarded by Jews as contemptuous of the holy and precious things of God's law.

In 2 Peter 2:22 two proverbs are applied to the case of Christians converted from a pagan background who return to their immoral pagan way of life. Once again the traditional association of dogs and pigs with Gentiles may be in view, as well as the more general association of these animals with dirt.

Questions for Discussion and Reflection

- 1. Like the Samaritan woman, this man was not saved merely for his own sake, but for the sake of others. As with Nicodemus, we can even ask ourselves whether this man was "saved" in the sense that we usually mean. Perhaps our notions of salvation can be a bit too limited. There is much that is captured in the simple phrase to be made right with God. So . . . was this man put right with God? How would we know?
- 2. When the residents of the region learn what has happened and what Jesus has done, they ask Jesus to leave.
  - a. Why do you think they asked him to leave?
  - b. In what ways do we ask Jesus to leave? Where and when do we want Jesus to leave us alone?
- 3. The words "Can it be true?" must have been on the lips of the man who was healed and the many people who heard what happened and came to see. These words are sometimes our own words, for we Christians make many extraordinary claims.
  - a. Of all the claims we make, what do you find the hardest to believe?
  - b. What can you do to help others to understand and to embrace our truth claims?

Daily Bible ReadingsBefore reading each passage, take a few minutes to get a sense of the context. Your study bible should help. Jot down a few questions that come to mind from your reading of the passage.

| should help. Jot down a few questions that come to mind from your reading of the passage. |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|---|---|--|--|--|--|--|
| Monday, Psalm 3 Rescue comes from the  | Tuesday, Luke 4:31-36 Jesus casts out a |  |  |  |  |  |
| Lord!   | demon in the Capernaum synagogue.       |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| Wednesday, Mark 5:1-20 Mark's   | Thursday, Matthew 8:28-34 Matthew's     |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| version of the story  | very abbreviated account.               |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| Enidos Monte 5.21 42 40 11 4  | Woolder Love on 1 Communication         |  |  |  |  |  |
| Friday, Mark 5:21-43 After sending the  | Weekly Joys and Concerns                |  |  |  |  |  |
| demons into the swine, Jesus returns to   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| Jewish lands and restores life to a young   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| girl. He also heals a sick woman.   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| giii. He also ficals a sick wolliali.   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   | ı                                       |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
|   |   |  |  |  |  |  |

Scott Engle's Weekday Bible Classes

Join us whenever you can. Each week's lesson stands on its own. This is very "drop-in." Bring something to eat if you like. Bring a study Bible.

On occasion Scott has to cancel class, so if you are coming for the first time, you can check www.scottengle.org to make sure the class is meeting.

Monday Evening Class We have just begun the book of Jonah Meets from 7:00 to 8:15 in Piro Hall

Tuesday Lunchtime Class
We have just begun Paul's letter to the Philippians
Meets from 11:45 to 1:00 in Piro Hall

Scott's 10:50 Sunday Class in Festival Hall

This is a large, lecture-oriented class open to all ages.

Our current series: The History of Heaven

Scott's Weekly Bible Studies are available at www.standrewumc.org. Just go to "worship" and then "sermons." You'll find the study with each week's recorded sermon. There is also a complete archive of the studies at www.scottengle.org

Sermon Notes

|      |  |  |
|------|------|--|
|      |      |  |
|  |  |  |
|  |      |  |
|  |      |  |
|      |      |  |
|      |      |  |
|      |      |  |
|      |      |  |
|  |  |  |